

Reno Walsh Bio

Reno Walsh moved to Bozeman in 1995 from Wisconsin with his cat and a degree in Environmental Science. Many years later he met his wife on Saddle Peak in the Bridgers, they were engaged on the Smith River and married in Lindley Park. Their five-year-old daughter will start at Hawthorne this fall and their nine-month-old son is teething. The Walshes live on the corner of East Aspen and North Bozeman Avenue. Reno organizes conferences that take place anywhere in the world for a Red Lodge based company. Before this, he sold and guided active vacations around the globe. He owns and operates a short term rental and a long term rental on North Montana Avenue and manages a short term rental near Bear Canyon. He has successfully worked with the City Commission and Planning Department on multiple permitting and licensing projects. When Reno is not working, focusing on family, or working on a home improvement, he's most likely running a river, running a trail, or shredding pow.

Reno is well aware of the tremendous growth, changes, and challenges we are experiencing in Bozeman. He wants to be sure he is doing what he can to help steer that growth, to hopefully be better prepared for the changes, and to address some of the challenges. Like you, Reno and his family have a strong desire to continue to live where we live, the way we live, surrounded by the good people we are all fortunate enough to call our neighbors and friends. Reno hopes to bring positive energy, honesty, reliability, organization, and a few good ideas to NENA. And he looks forward to listening to and working with his fellow community members to try and make good things happen.

Reno Walsh Bio

Reno Walsh moved to Bozeman in 1995 from Wisconsin with his cat and a degree in Environmental Science. Many years later he met his wife on Saddle Peak in the Bridgers, they were engaged on the Smith River and married in Lindley Park the day after Reno's 40th birthday in 2012. Their five-year-old daughter will start at Hawthorne this fall and their nine-month-old son is teething. Reno organizes conferences that take place anywhere in the world for a Red Lodge based company. Before this, he sold and guided active vacations around the globe. He owns and operates a short term rental and a long term rental on North Montana Avenue and manages a short term rental near Bear Canyon. He has successfully worked with the City Commission and Planning Department on multiple permitting and licensing projects. When Reno is not working, focusing on family, or working on a home improvement, he's most likely running a river, running a trail, or shredding pow.

Reno is well aware of the tremendous growth, changes, and challenges we are experiencing in Bozeman. He wants to be sure he is doing what he can to maybe help steer that growth, to hopefully be better prepared for the changes, and to address some of the challenges. Like you, Reno and his family have a strong desire to continue to live where we live, the way we live, surrounded by the good people we are all fortunate enough to call our neighbors and friends. Reno hopes to bring positive energy, honesty, reliability, organization, and maybe a few good ideas to NENA. And he looks forward to listening to and working with his fellow community members to try and make good things happen.